Description

Much like a rowing boat, the Children's Rower has been especially designed to provide a total body workout, developing upper body and core strength, balance, flexibility and of course, cardio fitness. Sitting in the chair, clasping the handles, users pull back with the arms while holding the core, extending the body backwards, before using the whole body to return back to the starting position. Suitable for all abilities, users simply set their own pace.

BENEFITS

- Offers a full body workout
- Develops strength in the arms and core
- Improves balance, coordination and flexibility
- Provides a cardiovascular workout
- Resistance provided by childs body weight
